Many of our communities do not have access to libraries, and they are isolated. If not for the Imagination Library, it would be a challenge to get books into the hands of preschool children. School Readiness for children from birth to age five

Inspire a Love of Reading

Children cherish the personalized books they receive each month through Dolly Parton's Imagination Library (DPIL). When parents and caregivers read to their children, it also exposes them to a larger, more diverse vocabulary and greater variety of sentence structures than just talking to them. Children develop concepts of print, alphabetic knowledge, phonological awareness and improved memory—all essential skills leading to school readiness and future academic success.

Reading together is the single most important way to help children get ready to read. Parents can support their child's education and cognitive development by sharing books as part of their everyday routine. Establishing these critical connections and communication pathways helps families prepare young children prior to entering school. Simple tasks such as looking at pictures in the books and reading aloud together not only supports the literacy growth, but also builds a special bond and supports a child's social and emotional development.

Most of the reading problems faced by today's adolescents and adults result from problems that might have been avoided or resolved in their early childhood years.

In addition, the Dollywood Foundation purchases high-quality, customized books at scale, significantly reducing cost. With these contributions, our local partners are only required to cover the at-cost book and mailing expenses for children registered in their coverage area.

Funders and local partners facilitate the cost of providing books so there is no cost to children and families. This approach, along with the model that the program is available to all children and families in a covered area, helped Dolly Parton's Imagination Library receive a coveted Best Practice Award from the U.S. Library of Congress for addressing social barriers to literacy.

Best of all, Dolly Parton's Imagination Library is available to all children at no cost to the family.

"Before he passed away, my Daddy told me the Imagination Library was probably the most important thing I had ever done. I can't tell you how much that meant to me because I created the Imagination Library as a tribute to my Daddy. He was the smartest man I have ever known, but I know in my heart his inability to read probably kept him from fulfilling all of his dreams.

"Inspiring kids to love to read became my mission. In the beginning, my hope was simply to inspire the children in my home county, but here we are today with a worldwide program that gives a book a month to more than 1 million children.

"Of course, I have not done this alone. The real heroes of our story are the thousands of local organizations who have embraced my dream and made it their own. They raise millions of dollars each year and wake up every day with a passion to make sure their kids have every opportunity to succeed.

"It's been quite a journey, but we have so much more left to do. I would love for your community to join our family so please take the time to explore our website. Let's share this dream that all children should grow up in a home full of books.

Together, making a difference.

Since 1995, Dolly Parton's Imagination Library has delivered more than 90 million books to children in more than 2,000 local communities worldwide.

With the support of local funders, coordination by partners and encouragement from community leaders and organizations, parents and educators spread the love of reading and engage children in the most fundamental skill necessary to succeed in life.

Invest In Early Literacy

1. Ninety percent of physical brain development occurs in the first three years of life, when a baby forms more than 1 million new neural connections per second.
2. When a young child enters kindergarten ready for school, there is an 82% chance that the child will master basic skills by age 11, compared with a 45% chance for children who are not school-ready.
3. Later in life, at-risk children who do not receive high-quality early childhood experiences are 25% more likely to drop out of school, 40% more likely to become teen parents and 60% less likely to attend college.
4. Investment in high-quality early childhood programs for at-risk children from birth to age five delivers a 7–10% annual return on investment through improved education, health, social and economic outcomes, increased productivity and the reduced need for social spending.

The presence of books in the home supports the child's academic, social, and emotional development. Children develop a special bond with their parents and caregivers by reading together. The Imagination Library puts books into the hands and hearts of children across the world at no cost to the family.

Challenge: Children who are read to early in life are better prepared for school. Dolly Parton's Imagination Library has been shown to significantly increase the time parents and caregivers spend reading to their children each week.

Key Stakeholders

Policymakers and Funders have significant influence in directing resources and catalyzing partnerships to adopt, scale, and take full advantage of opportunities with the Imagination Library.

Parents and Caregivers are a child's first teacher and set the course for developing their child's love of books and reading. Reading to their child from birth to age five improves their future reading ability and academic success.

Educators and Community Leaders validate the impact and continued progress as young students develop reading skills. Reducing the literacy gap in the early years allows teachers a better start in developing lifelong learners.

Affiliates and Community Partners offer the connection point, driving local awareness, enrolling local children, and paying the wholesale cost of the books and mailing each month.

Dolly Parton's Imagination Library

Summary of Research

Welcome to the Imagination Library

Imagination Library began with Dolly Parton's desire that every child, regardless of income, would have access to books. Since its founding, the Dollywood Foundation has conducted and encouraged research on the Imagination Library program in an effort to assess communities' reactions to the program and its impact on children's literacy. The majority of this research has been implemented at the local community level, by program staff or local researchers, to provide formative and summative feedback to support local Dolly Parton's Imagination Library (DPIL) implementations.

"We love the Imagination Library program! My daughter is so excited to get her new book each month. It supplements our trips to the public library and gets her excited about entering kindergarten as well."

The Dollywood Foundation initiated a review of over 20 years of research conducted on Imagination Library programs in the U.S. and internationally. The findings from the body of DPIL research indicate the program is extremely popular in the communities where it is implemented and show promise in promoting changes in home literacy environments, children's attitudes toward reading, and early literacy skills.

Positive Perceptions

- Participating family members were overwhelmingly positive about the program and its impact on their children when asked in questionnaires, interviews, and focus groups.
- Community members, including Imagination Library partners and preschool and kindergarten teachers, also had positive views of the program and its impact on book ownership and literacy practices in homes.
- The positive views of the program and its impacts were present regardless of the demographic characteristics of the community or its participants, and longer program participation often resulted in more positive outcomes.

Richer Home Literacy Environments

- Parents read aloud more to their children and were more comfortable reading as a result of DPIL.
- Parents reported their children owned more books as a result of participating in the program.

Dream More, Learn More, Care More, Be More

Improving Attitudes and Skills

- Parents believed their children were more interested in reading due to receiving the books each month.
- Participating children were excited when their DPIL books arrived in the mail monthly, addressed specifically to the child.
- Some studies found DPIL had promise with respect to developing children's early literacy skills, as participants had more advanced skills than their classmates who did not participate in the program.

Logic Model

The Dollywood Foundation is committed to supporting local DPIL programs and communities. One focus of our recent work has been identifying common outcomes for all DPIL programs. This will ensure we are all on the same page and provide the best program possible for children and families. These research-based outcomes were identified through reviews of the literature and are considered to be building blocks for lifelong literacy, supported by the research, and aligned with DPIL's philosophy and goals.
